

AIG Life – caring for our community

AIG Life's business is insuring lives to provide peace of mind and financial protection for individuals and their loved ones, in the event of loss of income through trauma.

In the same way, AIG Life is committed to caring for the underprivileged and people with a disability, who face challenges in their day-to-day lives. We do this by supporting a number of organisations whose aims are to help people to achieve a better quality of life, or prevent illness through medical research.

These initiatives are driven by the fundraising efforts of AIG Life's employees. AIG Life staff believe in helping those in our community who are faced with different challenges than themselves. By developing a Corporate Responsibility program which has clear aims and real outcomes, AIG Life is proud to have been involved in, and donated to many organisations over the past 5 years.

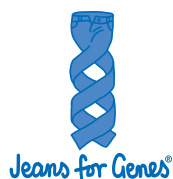

AIG's global commitment to our global community

American International Group (AIG) leverages its experience and global reach to promote entrepreneurship, innovation; diversity and empowerment.

AIG has begun addressing the environmental impact of its own operations by conducting the first global inventory of AIG's greenhouse gas emissions and began to develop a mitigation plan, including the purchase of carbon offsets.

We invite you to visit our website www.aig.com/responsibility which offers more comprehensive information about how AIG is working to make a difference in the community.
